Proposed New Chiropractic Guidelines

Lucas & Melissa Karayannis to: natboards

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to you from the deep concern I feel over the sudden, frankly horrifying, proposed new guidelines for Chiropractors. The speed with which this submission is being "pushed through" is baffling. Surely if these guidelines are to better our profession there should be a lengthy time of open discussion, not some 'gun-shot' submission form what appears to be a very small proportion of our profession. Where is our democratic right. What are these people afraid of (if there is open discussion)? That there idea ARE in fact there own and indeed not supported at all by the general Chiropractic profession.

The guidelines about adjusting the asymptomatic child are just simply disgraceful. Isn't the justifying argument of orthodox medicine in regards to vaccination meant to be preventative health care , especially for children. Will GPs the get new guidelines for the vaccination of asymptomatic children??

I would have thought that a profession that has the highly trained skills and knowledge to enable preventive care to a growing child to optimise their growth and development should be applauded, not denigrated in such a blatantly ignorant fashion.

Sincerely,

Melissa J.B. Karayannis
