National Chiropractic Guidelines

Dear Board Members,

I am writing to you in regard to the proposed national guidelines. I noticed in the acknowledgements a distinct lack of input and representation from actual chiropractors, chiropractic institutions, or chiropractic professional bodies. This is plainly unfair, unrepresentative and unrealistic. The requirements demanded by this document remove practical and clinical freedoms that are necessary to practice chiropractic at the coal face. Non qualified individuals or bodies cannot dictate terms to those who have specific professional qualifications due to the fact that they are ignorant of the real situation in clinical practice and causes them to produce over the top heavy handed rubbish like these guidelines.

I think there should be some real consultation with real chiropractors and professional bodies before any more draughts are produced.

Yours faithfully,
Jason Parkes
Chiropractor.
