Proposed Code of Conduct

To whom it may concern,

The proposed code of conduct recently brought to my attention via fellow colleagues is quite shocking in its nature. I'm not quite sure who is behind this proposition but never would I have thought that the growing profession of chiropractic would be this confined and absurdly disregarded.

I was trained in the United States and I am proud of my education and capabilities of providing healthcare to everyone. It seems as though, however, that in Australia, chiropractors are the only health professional that is being imposed on with this constricting code of conduct. There is no way that this misguided endeavor should in any way single out just the chiropractic professionals and not include ALL healthcare professionals including medical doctors.

Please reconsider the outlined code of conduct. At the very least, revise it and consult with the governing bodies of the chiropractic professional. Thank you for your time.

Yours in health,
